Dear Friends,

In our family, we have been producing Polled Shorthorns for 75 years and have been actively exhibiting and promoting them for over 50 years.

On November 1, we will not disperse our herd, but we will divide the cow herd with you. We will sell a set of bulls that we feel are good enough for purebred or commercial herds anywhere.

Every bull and cow selling was born here at home and were bred by Thieman's Polled Shorthorns. Most of them carry our breeding back several generations or more.

We will be honored by your interest and your presence at this event.

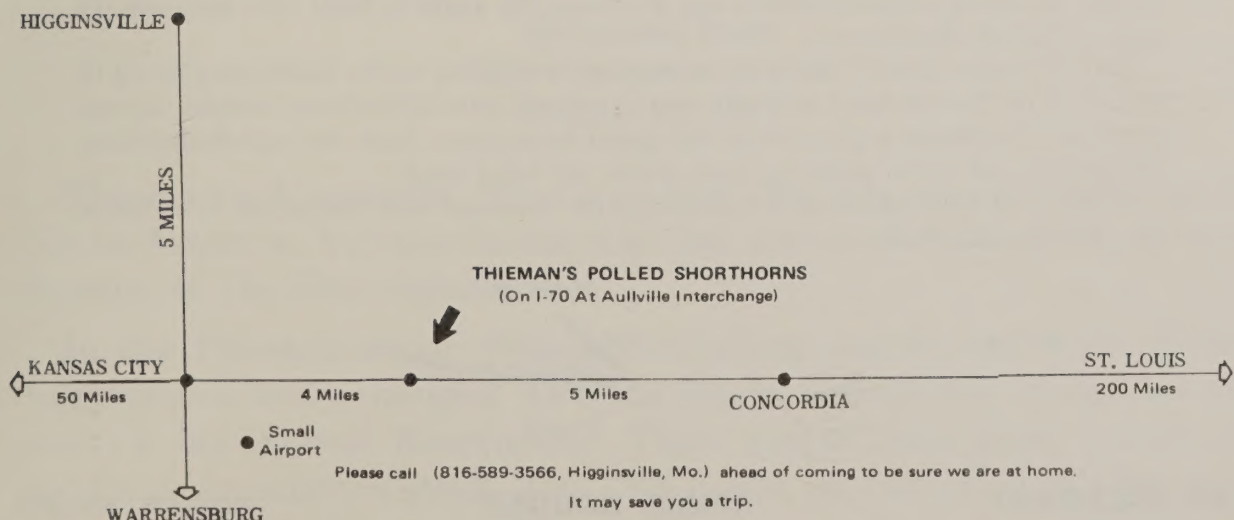

Sincerely,

Harold Thieman

Dear Cattleman,

It is with pleasure that we welcome you to the 75th anniversary sale of Thieman Polled Shorthorns, November 1 at Concordia, Missouri.

Our firm feels extremely proud to be associated with the entire Thieman family in preparing for this sale marking their 75th year of breeding and promoting registered Polled Shorthorn seedstock. This span of 75 consecutive years is phenomenal when talking about registered cattle operations, for there are few if any active breeders of any breed today that have withstood the many type changes, changes of popular bloodlines, not to mention the economical fluctuation within the industry, for such a long and continuous period of time.

Lewis, Harold and Jimmy Thieman have certainly combined their talents throughout the years in keeping the Thieman name at the top of the Polled Shorthorn industry. Certainly their ability to breed, fit, and promote Polled Shorthorn cattle will never be matched as revealed by their numerous show winners and sale toppers.

The TPS prefix has been in pedigrees of show and class winners throughout this continent and as a result, heads the name of many herd bulls throughout the country.

Selling on the 1st of November will be a top set of Polled Shorthorn bulls and females. There will be 18 bulls and 62 females selling. The bull portion will be highlighted by the selling of the two Determined bulls (Lots 1 and 2). They are both sons of the immortal TPS Coronet Keystone 14th and are certainly the type to head up purebred herds anywhere. Both bulls have seen light service within the Thieman herd and their progeny look extremely promising. Also selling will be a June son of the Great White Hope, a bull that wrote history for Graham Land and Livestock Company in show rings throughout the land. This bull calf will be Lot 18.

Heading up the female offering will be a great set of females either bred and safe with calf or with calves at foot. A majority of these females will be carrying the service or will have calves at foot sired by Acadia Dutch 7th, a top son of Stone Oak Leader, a bull that had a tremendous show record and thousands of beef cattle admirers. The Dutch cross on Catalyst 20 daughters has certainly been a working one here at Thieman's. Several Catalyst 20 daughters will sell featuring the Dutch get and service.

We could go on and on talking about the great sale offering, the tremendous family dedication and tradition backing this foundation set of Polled Shorthorn cattle. However, instead we will but welcome you again to their 75th anniversary sale of Polled Shorthorns.

The Thieman family has built a monument for the entire Shorthorn breed to be proud of. November 1 will offer you, the dedicated Shorthorn breeder, an opportunity to obtain a piece from this great monument built through dedication, promotion, selective matings, and above all hard work.

Won't you make plans now to be with the Thieman's on November 1, we know you'll enjoy yourself.

Sincerely,

Bruce

It All Started With Thieman's

by Larry Henry

Reprinted from The Shorthorn World
August 15, 1970

Thieman's, Concordia, Mo., is a name that has not only swept across North America, but also is one that has surrounded the globe in its influence on the Shorthorn breed.

In the Thieman wake, Polled Shorthorns and the entire breed have been dramatically changed. TPS has played a major role in the switch to today's big-framed Shorthorns. Their cattle have been universally sought as foundation stock. The TPS prefix, as a result, heads the name of many herd bulls around the world.

Many of today's big cattle have their roots in the Thieman herd. The change is a tribute to Lewis W. Thieman and his son Harold, who as a result have become international figures in the Shorthorn business.

This is the story of size and quality . . . in fact this is how it all started, with Thieman's.

One-hundred twenty-five years ago a young German farmer came to the U.S. and settled in Lafayette County, Mo., on a pre-empted claim. Henry Thieman brought with him his wife and two children. They later had five more children including William, father of Lewis and grandfather of Harold Thieman. Henry Thieman was a good farmer and was moderately successful. His farm was only five miles east of the present farm site. His grandfather chose that part of Missouri, because, "After they got here they were too poor to move anywhere else," says Lewis Thieman.

Following Henry Thieman's death in 1892, his son William purchased 700 acres of land at $44 an acre. William continued to run a general farming operation until an unlikely turn of events changed his course and put the Thieman's into the cattle business.

In 1901, a fair was being planned at Lexington, Mo. Two men in the community decided to go into business by stealing chickens and opening a concession at the fair to serve fried chicken.

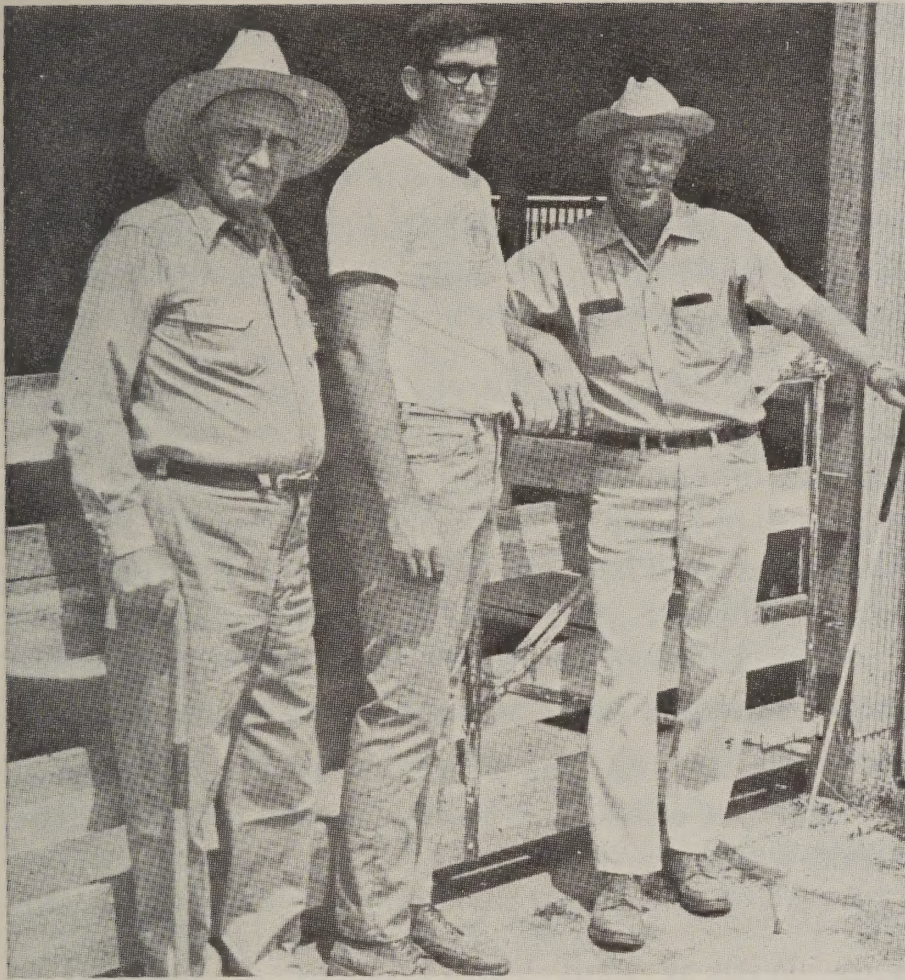

They chose to raid the farm of George Johnson, Lexington. Hearing the thieves in his chicken house, Johnson ran into his yard and fired both barrels of a shotgun into the air. The thieves, realizing that he was now defenseless, attacked and killed him. The chicken thieves were eventually caught by a group of local citizens and hanged.

Several head of Polled Shorthorns were included in George Johnson's estate in Lexington, Mo., that was sold October 29, 1901. William Thieman, now the father of five sons and two daughters, purchased several head at the sale, beginning a herd which he enjoyed until his death in 1907.

Two of his sons, Lewis W. and D. B. Thieman, retained several Shorthorns to begin new herds. They began improving their stock with the introduction of better cattle. Dan Thieman settled near Higginsville, Mo., and was an active breeder of Polled Shorthorns until 1964 when he dispersed his herd because of ill health. Harold bought the entire herd outright. Dan Thieman held various positions in the American Polled Durham Breeders Assn. including president, vice president and director.

Lewis Thieman purchased the present farm site in 1907. It included 320 acres, and he paid $100 an acre which was considered an exorbitant amount. But, it was good land.

Lewis not only had a background in farming, but also a formal education. He was graduated from the University of Missouri with a degree in animal husbandry in 1904 and was one of two persons in his graduating class. He was married to the former Lydia Weber, Sweet Springs, Mo. They had two children, Harold and Homer.

Harold has long become famous through the Shorthorn business in his own right and is now in charge of the farm. Homer is a past president of Corn Belt Publishers, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

Lewis gradually added better breeding to his herd. In 1919 he purchased Baroness Sultana x at $1,575 from Achenbach Bros., Washington, Ks. This was the top price ever paid for a Polled Shorthorn cow at that time, and the record price held for many years. At the same time he purchased Acacia Cora, the granddam of Count Coronet x, the 1935 International grand champion Polled Shorthorn bull and Thieman's first International champion bull.

The first outstanding herd sire was Graceful Sultan x, that came from the herd of J. H. Miller, Peru, Ind. He was by Sultan of Anoka and sired Graceful Supreme x that in turn was used in the Thieman herd to sire the famous Vanity Queen x. The Thieman's have produced all but four of the 28 bulls that have been used in the herd since Graceful Sultan x. At least 23 of these bulls weighed more than a ton at maturity. That is one of the secrets behind the size that is bred into the Thieman herd.

During this development period, the two Thieman boys were growing up, getting an education and taking an interest in the herd. Lewis retained a commercial herd of cattle and fed steers in addition to a general grain operation. He dehorned the steers and Harold can still remember the large pile of horns on his father's lot. The distasteful dehorning job caused the Thieman's to retain a polled herd.

There are a few cows in the present herd with horns, however. Harold says, "We have never hesitated to use a horned cow if she has the possibility of improving the herd."

The family began showing cattle as Harold Thieman took an increasing interest in the herd. To say that the Thieman show record is impressive is a gross understatement. Since their first International show in 1931, they have had a total of 21 grand champions at Chicago. This includes 15 female champions and six champion bulls. According to Harold, one of his most memorable moments in the Shorthorn business occurred when 14 of the Denver Western Stock Show champions carried Thieman breeding, and Thieman's were not exhibiting.

Harold is very proud of the fact that the Thieman herd has showed at the International every year but one since that first show in 1931 ... the omitted year was in 1966 when Harold judged.

Harold Thieman was 16 years old when he took the Thieman show herd on the road alone. With it went Vanity Queen x, destined to become an important figure in Shorthorn history. Harold readily admits that he didn't show her, she showed him.

And show him she did. Vanity Queen x became the first Thieman International grand champion in 1931. She didn't stop there, however. She won the same championship in the two succeeding years, becoming the only female of any branch of the Shorthorn breed that has been three-time International grand champion. Harold says that he learned a lot about showing cattle from Vanity Queen x.

After her last International win, Vanity Queen x joined the Thieman herd and became a top producing cow. The mating of Vanity Queen x and the 1935 International grand champion bull, Count Coronet x, produced the 1936 International champion female, Vanity Queen 2nd x.

There have been many such triumphs for the Thieman show herds. Thirteen of the Thieman herd bulls have been International grand champions or have sired International grand champions. In addition, Thieman show cattle have been grand champions at the American Royal, the Polled Congress and most of the other top stops on the show circuit. Both original Charles J. Lynn challenge trophies, awarded to the grand champions of the International, have now been retired by Thieman champions. Possession of the trophy requires three grand championship wins at the International. The original female trophy was retired in 1952 as a result of grand champions in 1949, 1950 and 1952. The bull trophy was retired in 1957 with wins in 1950, 1953 and 1957.

Since then, Thieman show cattle have retired two more Charles Lynn trophies.

Harold Thieman was graduated from the University of Missouri in animal science in 1937. He was married to the former Virginia Hicklin, Lexington, Mo., and joined his father as a partner in 1938. He became a "Builder of the Breed" in 1949, three years after his father received the same honor. Harold Thieman has since been accorded many signal honors. President of the American Polled Shorthorn Society, on the board of directors of the American Royal and the International shows and a trustee of the Shorthorn Foundation. Also president of the American Shorthorn Assn.

According to Harold, his father let him make many decisions during his early years about the herd. He also admits that some of them were practically disastrous, but very educational.

From the 1940's until the 1950's small showy cattle were universally popular. Although they used a "corner" of their herd to produce this type for their show string, the Thiemans continued also to produce large cattle, Harold says. The big reason for the decision to retain large cattle was their foreign demand for the larger cattle, and they brought more income when they went to market.

In 1934, Australians came to the home of the Polled Shorthorn, the U.S., in search of bulls. They returned with several, and their demand for size left a deep impression on Lewis and Harold following a visit to Thieman's at Concordia. Homer Thieman had charge of that first shipment of cattle to Australia.

Because of their insistence on retaining size, the Thiemans have since sold cattle to Canada, South America, Australia, South Africa, and Great Britain.

Another reason the Thiemans retained large cattle was they have always used large bulls. Most of them have been home-grown, and the size is retained by the ruthless use of scales at the farm. Harold maintains that, "You can right many wrongs with just two crosses of the right bull."

The Thiemans continued to win in the showring by using cows that had smallness bred into them. They sold the larger production of those cows and selected their show string from the smaller calves, Harold says. At the same time, they retained the large, sound cows that they had bred over the years. In 1950, Harold and Lewis made the decision to switch completely from small cattle because they believed the trend wrong.

At that time they were winning championships with the small kind, including national championships. The decision was reinforced when King of Vanities 100th x, the 1950 International grand champion bull, brought only $1,000 in the Thieman sale that year. Other larger bulls in that sale outsold him.

Shortly after, they sold every cow in the herd that had smallness bred into her. They didn't sell them to other breeders, they sent them to market. Harold explained, "They weren't any good for us, and they weren't any good for anybody else either."

Things went sour in the showring shortly after. Thiemans began showing bulls they formerly steered because they were too big.

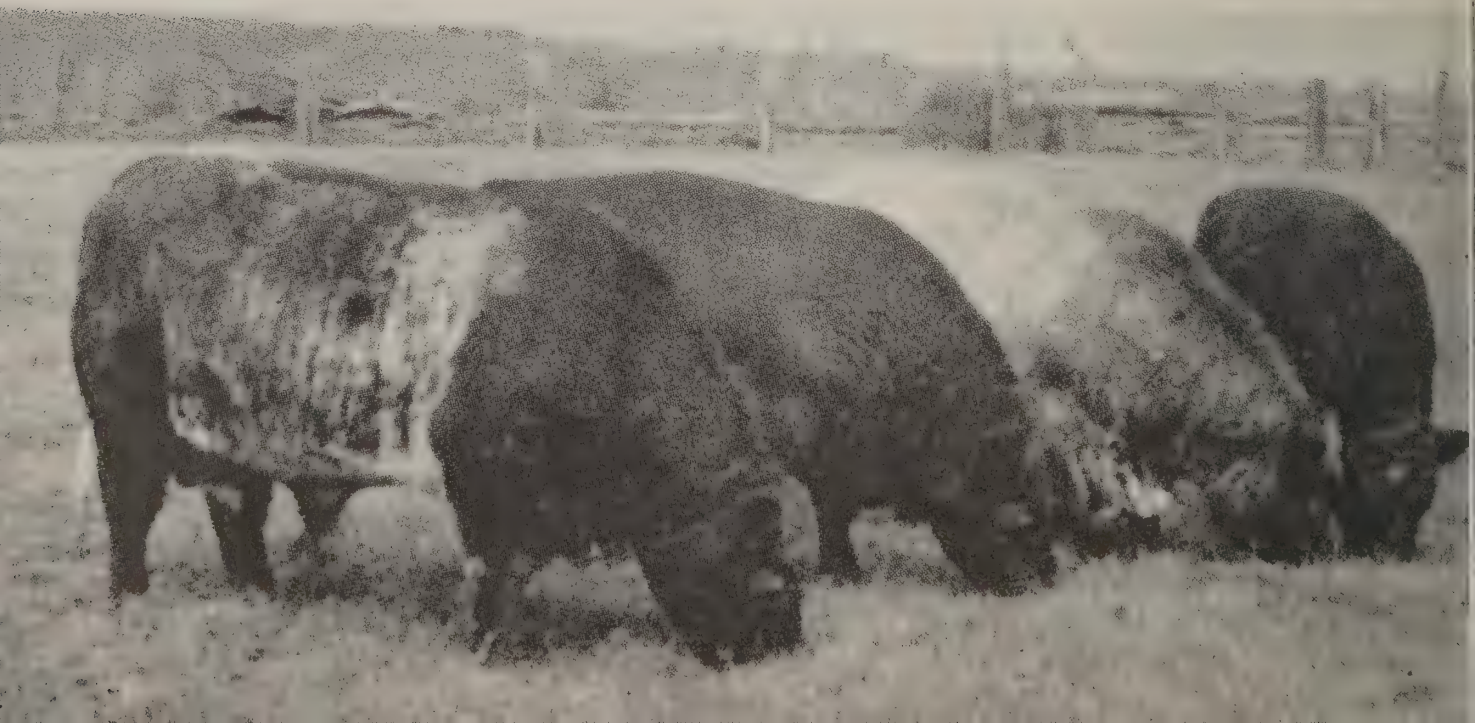

Everyone began thinking about the size of cattle at that time, because larger cattle would never stand last in class. They didn't win either.

The first win for the larger cattle came in 1953 when Thieman's won both grand championships at the International. TPS Max Coronet 5th x by Coronet Max Juggler 3rd x was champion bull and Beauty Coronita 4th x by Coronet Max Juggler x was the champion female. The judge at that show was Charles Yule, Calgary, Alta.

An important purchase in 1949 gave the herd a vital size boost at just the right time. Harold was in search of a bull to produce a great herd bull. He and C. D. "Pete" Swaffar, then a leading auctioneer and now executive secretary of American Shorthorn Association, sat at a kitchen table one night in February 1949 talking about the kind of bull needed and what the bull of tomorrow should be. The next morning, Harold left on a trip to Canada where he found Killearn Max Juggler for $3,600 at Claude Gallinger's Killearn Farm. At 12 months he weighed 1,075 pounds and at 24 months weighed 1,740 pounds. He was also an extremely sound and correct bull.

He was used heavily while at Thiemans. Later that year they sold 19 heifers bred to him for an average price of $1,132. The best Thieman females were safe in calf when he sold in the summer of 1949 to Clausen Brothers, Spencer, Iowa. Before being sold, he settled more than 130 cows. Then he was shown at the American Royal, the Eastern National and the International where he was undefeated for grand champion.

These are the kind that make Thieman bulls popular. The first bull, Coronet Max Leader 3rd x, was purchased privately by the Bapton Polled Shorthorn Herd, and other sons of Priam Royal Leader sold to Kansas, Iowa and Missouri.

The Thiemans got a herd sire from him too. Coronet Max Juggler 18th x was born early in 1950. He was out of Lancaster Coronita 2nd x, the top-selling female in the Polled Congress that year, sold by Thiemans to Lynnwood Farm, Carmel, Ind. Thiemans then purchased the calf Juggler 18th x from Lynnwood. He was used in the herd until 1958. When an eight-year-old, he weighed 2,085 lbs.

The influence of the Thieman breeding is truly worldwide in scope. They have exported dozens of cattle to many countries. But, more important, these cattle have gone on to play a big part in the development of Polled Shorthorns in those countries.

The Australians, the very people who had influenced the Thiemans to retain large cattle despite the popularity of smaller type, returned to the U.S. in search of a polled bull to find him at Thiemans. The story of Priam Royal Leader x is now history. His influence has been felt throughout the world.

In 1954, Harold was looking for a yearling bull to show with what he considered a great female. His search took him to Ben G. Studer's farm, Wesley, Iowa. There he found Priam Royal Leader x. Although he didn't purchase the bull, he did get permission to show him at the International. Priam Royal Leader x was calved in 1953. He was by Lawton Priam and his dam was Valley View Rosewood 23rd x. Studer and Thieman sold him to H. and H. McFarlane, Milly Milly Stud, New South Wales, Australia, in 1954 for $7,500. He arrived in Australia in 1955 where he began a most distinguished career as herd sire for two top studs. Priam Royal Leader x breeding holds practically every record and championship in Australia. His descendants sold from Milly Milly to more than 70 different herds in Australia, and most of the Australian herds have used his offspring. He sold in 1959 to Walter Johnson, Brigalow, Cumnock, and the Karoola herd. He was used extensively and his progeny again established record prices. Priam Royal Leader x has dominated Polled Shorthorn pedigrees in Australia for many years, and recently semen from his progeny is being used in Canada and the U.S.

The Thiemans have had the added honor of being among few in North America to have sold breeding stock to Scotland, reversing the historic trend. Several Thieman cattle sold to found the famous Bapton polled herd. Among the more famous individuals to go to Bapton from Thiemans was Queen of Hearts 18th x, the 1955 International grand champion, that sold for $8,000. Coronet Max Leader 3rd x was the first Thieman stock bull to go to Scotland, selling to the Bapton herd in 1956 for $6,000. He was used extensively for three years and produced great individuals including Clipper King of Bapton x that eventually returned to the U.S. to help found the Polled Shorthorn unit of the Northwood herd, Cary, Ill. TPS Coronet Commander x followed, going to Bapton in 1958. Progeny from these two great sires were still being used at the time the Bapton herd was sold to Louada Manor Farms, Peterborough.

Another Thieman export went to King Bros., of South Africa. TPS Coronet Commander 8th x helped to establish firmly the size and quality that South Africans were seeking in polled cattle. Several females have also gone to King Bros.

Harold was especially honored in 1957 when he was asked to judge at the Royal Easter show in Sydney, Australia. The trip took him to Shorthorn herds in many countries.

The top price ever paid for a Thieman bull was $20,000 for TPS Max Coronet 5th x, undefeated grand champion of the International in 1953, and sold to Avenel Farm, Bethesda, Md. He was by Coronet Max Juggler 3rd x.

The Thieman operation began on borrowed capital, and it is a tribute today to what proper management can do. The only source of income has always been registered Polled Shorthorn cattle and general farming.

The current Thieman operation includes 640 acres devoted to raising Polled Shorthorns. The cow herd numbers 120 today. Lewis Thieman is still active at age 94. Harold, his son Jim, now a graduate of the University of Missouri in animal husbandry, and Howard Chamberlain, who has worked at the Thieman farm for 25 years, carry on the Thieman tradition.

Jim Thieman is in charge of the show string since the 1970 season. Both Jim and Harold's daughter Jeanette have always been interested in Shorthorns, and each owns several cows in the herd including the dam of TPS Coronet Keystone x.

The greatest herd bull ever used in the Thieman herd was Coronet Max Leader x, according to Harold. He considers that this massive son of Priam Royal Leader x has done more for the breed than any other bull in recent years. He weighed 2,450 lbs. at maturity and never had his feet trimmed. He sired many famous individuals including TPS Coronet Leader 21st x, named the first "Sire of the Year" for 1969 by the American Shorthorn Assn.; TPS Coronet Catalyst x, owned jointly with Willard Beckman, Lodi, Calif.; TPS Coronet Keystone x, now owned jointly by Thiemans and C. E. Jernberg, Atlanta, Ga., and Draper Bros., Elgin, Man., and TPS Coronet Leader 85th x, owned with Herbert Krug & Sons, Russell, Ks.

The Thieman herd is efficiently maintained and cared for on this well-designed purebred farm. Although the farm is old, its new design was necessitated when a super highway system took a large portion of the Thieman land and forced movement of practically all the buildings.

An important aspect in the development of the Thieman herd has been their purchase of more than 20 complete herds of Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns. These were assimilated into the herd according to the time of calving. Through this process, more than 800 head have been brought in, used, kept or discarded in a rigid system of culling.

All cows in the herd are maintained in a breeding cycle. They are rotated in pastures by their closeness to calving. Dry cows are kept in one pasture, bred cows in another, cows near calving in another, cows with baby calves in another, and so on.

The rolling hills of Missouri provide excellent pasture throughout the summer. Cows with calves and the older cows are maintained on silage throughout the winter. Dry cows are pastured during the winter on alfalfa hay. Bulls are kept in lots during winter and receive a light grain of oats and crushed ear corn plus grass hay. Weaned heifers are fed rough grain and ground ear corn in winter.

It would be expected that Harold and Jim Thieman have definite ideas on the future of the Shorthorn business. In this operation, they hope to continue to work toward producing beef as economically as possible. They firmly believe that Shorthorns must be rapid producers, good tempered, free of calving problems and bad udders, and good at converting rough feed into beef in order to compete in the beef industry.

They do see some weaknesses in the breed. Naturally, one would expect them always to seek size. They say, "The breed needs more weight and length with animals that will finish with thick muscle and good quarters." They don't want dairy muscling or narrow hind quarters.

Harold believes modern testing and carcass evaluation is necessary to attract commercial cattlemen. He adds that the commercial man shows an increasing demand for testing, and that often he is more critical than purebred breeders in the bull that he seeks.

Very simply, he says, "I've got to please the commercial man . . . it's my bread and butter."

There are many memorable moments in the long and proud history of the Thieman herd. Undoubtedly there will be many more with men such as Harold and Jim Thieman at the helm.

Dedicated

To the fact that all cattle are not created equal!

That it is possible, through Polled Shorthorns, to develop beef animals that will not simply compete but will surpass all other beef cattle regardless of origin, color or breed!

That it is necessary to be constantly aware of the demands of the producer, feeder, packer and consumer.

That every medium of improvement available be considered, coupled with clear vision, understanding, and keen foresight to anticipate an ideal beef animal — and achieve that goal!

His 205 day weight was 648 lbs. His 365 day weight 1112 lbs. His mature weight was 2450 lbs. His Sonoray was 2.11 sq. inches per 100 lbs. of carcass weight. Cat 20 has been on the Sire of the Year roster twice. His get and progeny have won many championships and topped sales. His daughters have excellent udders and are producing top calves from our other bulls.

A 100% dehorning bull that is gone now but he left us a grand set of good big breeding females. His 205 day wt. was 605 lbs; 365 day 1073. He developed into a mature 2250 lb. bull. He is a full brother to the 1967 International Grand Champion Female that weighed 1575 lbs. when winning as a senior yearling. His sire was the highest classifying AAA bull in the United States. His dam is a half sister to 4 AAA cows, all of which weigh over 1500 lbs. in working order. This bull was never exhibited and not even halter broke. He would have been too large to win. He was a big, smooth, and beautifully proportioned BEEF bull with an excellent set of feet and legs. Unlimited 14 has been on the Sire of the Year roster.

This big white bull is by the $12,000 Keystone bull we sold the Draper's at Rothbury Farms in Canada. We are selling several great sons and daughters of this bull in the sale. K14 has run with cows winter and summer with no grain or ensilage and he weighs 2010 lbs. at 7 years of age in hard working condition. He is now being used in the sire evaluation tests run by Burke Johnson at Crowheart, Wyoming. We hear that the calves look mighty good. We know they will gain on feed.

Champion as a calf. Champion as a yearling and champion as a 2 year old. This bull is now siring a great set of calves. He looks better than ever after running on pasture this summer. There is no doubt that his sire is one of the best beef bulls in recent history with a great show and breeding record. The dam of Dutch is one of the finest, largest, and most correct breeding females we have ever produced. She made an exceptionally good show record in her own right.

Coronet Max Leader 3d was sold for export to Scotland at $6000. Killlearn Max Juggler was purchased as a calf at $4000. Then sold as a 2 year old to Clausen Bros. at $10,000. He was an international grand champion, weighed over a ton, and had settled over 100 cows, all as a 2 year old. This cow sells with possibly the best bull calf in the sale at foot, sired by T P S Coronet Keystone 14th. He came in June. She has been pasture exposed to Acadia Dutch 7th.
